Johnson City, Tenn. — Anticipation has been building regarding the future plans of Ryan Seaton, who won the hearts of fans all over the world during his tenure with Ernie Haase and Signature Sound. For those who have been waiting to see what would be next for the popular singer, the wait is over, and the future looks very bright! Seaton has announced plans to embark upon a solo career.

Innovative Management and Consulting (IMC) will team with Seaton in this new endeavor, providing management and tour promotion. Both parties are excited about the future, which includes a solo recording, new website, special merchandise and concert touring. “I am thrilled and excited to be involved with Innovative Management,” Seaton states. “I believe their creative excellence in areas of marketing, production and concert promotion is the right fit for taking my music and heart to this new platform. I’ve been a quartet man for so long, but I am very excited to step out and take the lead as a solo artist.”

Innovative co-owner, Landon Beene says the IMC team is thrilled to be a part of this venture. “We have put together a talented and creative team of people to assist Ryan, and we are excited to watch all of the elements come together to make a project that people will be talking about for a long time. Ryan has all the right ingredients to be one of the top solo artists in Gospel music. Beyond talent, he has a heart for the people, a loyal fan base and a love for the message of the song.”

In addition to teaming with IMC, Seaton is working with several prominent Nashville-based producers on the production of his debut recording, which promises a new, fresh and exciting sound for Gospel music lovers to enjoy. A mid-summer release date is tentatively planned.
